

WACKY WoRdPLaY Wednesday

Buttons & Figs

Chain Tale Play

This is the podcast that Pam built.

This is the poem that inspired the podcast that Pam built.

This is the kid
that read the poem that inspired
the podcast that Pam built.

This is the microphone
that recorded the kid
that read the poem that inspired
the podcast that Pam built.

This is the nonsense that was written for the microphone
that recorded the kid
that read the poem that inspired
the podcast that Pam built.

Can you write your own chain tale?

Answer: (d) The Jumbles by Edward Lear inspired Buttons & Figs

WORDPLAY: CHAIN TALES
sequencing, story, cause & effect

DIFFICULTY:

